Student Information for School Year 2011 - 2012

August 2011

Dear Parents/Guardian and Student:

A federal law, called No Child Left Behind, says schools must share certain student information to colleges, prospective employers, and military recruiters if they ask for it.

The information shared includes the student's:

- Name
- Phone number, and
- Address
- Email address

The law also gives you and your student the right to refuse to share that information.

If you or your student (even if s/he is under 18) do not want that information shared, fill out below and return this notice to your student's school office. If it's OK with you that we share your student's information, you do not have to do anything.

If you have any questions, please contact your school office.

Sincerely,

Ms. Pamela Mari
 Executive Director of Student Services and Secondary Programs
